

The following gear should make your interactive classroom experience a better one.

Many computers—especially laptops—come with a web-camera already built in. In most cases, this webcam will be fine for you to use. If you don't have a built-in camera, you can use pretty well any web camera available. We recommend:

Even though many computers come with built-in microphones and speakers, in order to cut down on feedback and background noise, eProv students must use headphones and a noise cancelling microphone when taking part in classes. These can range from quite simple to quite elaborate. We recommend:
